

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A determination of whether to decode a received packet is performed based upon a determination of the likelihood of decoding the received packet. The likelihood of successful decoding of the received packet is based upon a 5 channel quality indication determined during a period of time and a transport format employed for the packet received during the period of time.